Artifact 7 - 6

Graduate Student Orientation Program

- This artifact was developed in the Summer 2010 semester for my internship with the Office of Graduate Studies.

- This artifact is a new graduate orientation program similar to the graduate expo program. This program features the room layout, schedule of events, and the link to the new graduate orientation handbook.

- This project addresses the following Florida Educational Leadership Standards and the substandards that apply: Standard 7: Technology

- Since we are no longer printing our graduate orientation handbook, we needed a way to showcase the web link and give students information on the orientation night events. So, I used InDesign to create this program, which is similar to the expo program to give students some information, the room layout, and mostly to give them the link to the new orientation handbook online. This handbook will be very helpful in giving them the easiest way to get the information they need.
Thank you for joining us for our Fall 2010 Graduate Studies Orientation.

Please know our office is here for you throughout your graduate education. If you have any questions or needs, please let us know.

Congratulations on your acceptance to graduate studies at Florida Gulf Coast University! This orientation is a great start to your graduate school journey. We are glad you are here with us tonight.

We have created a Graduate Student Handbook that includes everything you need to know about graduate school at FGCU. It provides links to department websites and information that is important to graduate students. Environmental sustainability is a key value to our mission as a university, so we are providing students an electronic copy of the handbook. To view our student handbook, please visit this website at:
